

Jan Drago – Co-Chair

Jan Drago is a former Seattle and King County councilmember. Her tenure on the City Council included four years as Council President and four years as chair of the Finance and Budget Committee. She vice-chaired the Housing and Economic Development Committee, and was a member of the Seattle Center Committee. Past experience also includes representing the City Council on the Transportation Policy Board on the Puget Sound Regional Council and the Sister City Association, among others. She participates in many community organizations, including the Downtown Seattle Association, the Women's Political Caucus, Governor Booth Gardner's Task Force on Homelessness, and was one of the original founders of Sustainable Seattle. Drago is a graduate of Douglass College, Rutgers University, with a bachelor's degree in psychology.

Maud Daudon – Co-Chair

Maud Daudon is CEO and President of Seattle Northwest Securities Corporation. Prior to joining Seattle Northwest, Daudon served for four years as Deputy Mayor and Chief of Staff for the City of Seattle. Prior to this role, she was the Chief Financial Officer for the Port of Seattle. She gained significant experience in public finance by working for six years completing transportation and public works-related bond financings for a national investment banking firm from its New York and Seattle offices. Daudon is immediate past chair of the Seattle Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce. She has a master's degree in Public and Private Management with an emphasis on finance and economic development from Yale University and a bachelor's degree from Hampshire College.

Lenny Wilkens – Co-Chair

Lenny Wilkens is the only person to be inducted three times into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame as a player, coach, and Olympian. Wilkens, a nine-time NBA all-star and SuperSonics coach for eight seasons, was the head coach for the 1979 NBA Champion Seattle SuperSonics. Wilkens, who served as an assistant coach for the 1992 USA Olympic Dream Team, and head coach for the 1996 team, has been named one of the top ten coaches and one of the top 50 players in NBA history.

David Freiboth

David Freiboth currently serves as the executive secretary of the ML King County Labor Council. Freiboth has served on a broad range of community efforts, from transportation causes to regulatory reform, at the city, regional and state level. He currently serves on the United Way Board of Directors, the board of the Workforce Development Council, Enterprise Seattle and the Convention and Visitors Bureau. Last year, Freiboth teamed up with a regional alliance that successfully brought Boeing 737 MAX production to the Seattle area.

Doris Koo

Doris Koo, a current senior advisor and former President and Chief Executive Officer of Enterprise Community Partners, is a nationally respected leader with decades of experience in community development and affordable housing. The mission of Enterprise Community Partners is to create opportunity for low- and moderate income people through affordable housing in diverse, thriving communities. She is currently a member of the Russell Family Foundation's Investment and Audit Committee. Koo has also served as the Deputy Executive Director of the Seattle Housing Authority, where she oversaw municipal bond financing, four HOPE IV redevelopment efforts, internal management and operations. She has served as chairman of the Affordable Housing Advisory Council of Federal Home Loan Bank of Seattle, among other community development and affordable housing efforts. Koo has a bachelor's degree in sociology from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and a master's degree in social service administration from the University of Chicago.

Karen Lee

Karen Lee is the CEO of Pioneer Human Services, a non-profit that helps people overcome challenges of chemical dependency, mental health issues or criminal histories by offering an integrated array of housing, employment, training, reentry and treatment services. Lee, a former Washington State Employment Security Commissioner, has also served as Director of Gas Operations at Puget Sound Energy, where she was wholly accountable for the safe distribution and delivery of natural gas to users throughout western Washington. Prior to this, Lee was as an Associate Attorney at Preston Gates Ellis (now K & L Gates) where she specialized in municipal and land use litigation. Lee is a member of the Washington State Bar Association, vice-president of Tabor 100, past president and trustee of the University of Washington Alumni Association, and former board member of the Cascade Land Conservancy (now Forterra). Lee graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point with a bachelor of science degree and holds a law degree from the University of Washington.

Estela Ortega

Estela Ortega is a co-founder and executive director of El Centro de la Raza, a hub for Seattle's Latino community and an organization dedicated to social justice for all. Ortega recently co-chaired the renewal of the Families and Education Levy, a $245 million effort approved overwhelmingly by Seattle residents. She was honored last year by US Senators Murray and Cantwell as a 2011 Woman of Valor for her public service and community development efforts.

Greg Smith

Greg Smith is the founder and CEO of Urban Visions, a Seattle-based real estate firm dedicated to environmentally sustainable development. Smith, a fifth-generation

Seattleite, recently founded Stadium Nissan just south of the International District. He is passionate about sustainable, urban development and his leadership has helped place Seattle at the top of the pack of our country's greenest cities. He is an expert at addressing development issues relating to traffic and negative environmental impacts. Greg Smith currently serves on the Seattle Art Museum executive board and has served on the boards of the Seattle Convention and Visitors Bureau and the Loghouse Museum, among others.

Anthony R. Miles

Tony Miles, a partner in the Seattle office of Stoel Rives LLP, focuses his practice on health care related transactions and counseling. He provides corporate, transactional and regulatory advice to a broad range of clients whose products and services cover the full spectrum of business in the health care industry. Tony helps clients conceive, negotiate and implement strategic affiliations to expand their service offerings through collaboration, alternative care delivery structures, pharmacy benefits management, and innovative benefits program structures in compliance with federal health program rules and applicable state laws and regulations. He also devotes a substantial amount of his practice to data privacy and security matters, including data incident response and breach notification matters involving up to five million individuals. Actively committed to public service, Tony currently is involved with the Washington Business Alliance, Year Up Puget Sound and Seattle JazzED. His past service includes the boards of Rosehedge AIDS Housing and Health Care and the Central District Forum for Arts and Ideas, and committees of the Washington State Bar Association. Tony graduated cum laude from the University of Michigan Law School and received his bachelor of arts with distinction from Yale University.

Dr. Jill Wakefield

Jill Wakefield is a visionary leader recognized for the depth of her experience in community college education and for developing innovative solutions and strategic partnerships. She became Chancellor of the Seattle Community Colleges in January 2009, after a long career at South Seattle Community College that included five years as college president, when she led the college in developing one of the first four-year degrees in the state, a University Center, and the award-winning Northwest Wine Academy as well as establishment of the landmark Georgetown Campus. As Chancellor, she represents the district as leader and advocate at local, regional, state and national organizations. Dr. Wakefield sits on the boards of several regional institutions and non-profits as well as local and national educational boards, including Seattle University and the League for Innovation in the Community College. She has received numerous awards and accolades. Chancellor Wakefield is a community college graduate who earned her associate's degree from Centralia College, bachelor's degree in education from Central Washington University, master's degree in public administration/public policy from the University of Washington, and doctorate in educational leadership from Seattle University.